Impact of Social Media and Cell Phones on Students

Presenter: Michael Bogden, Asst. Director of Education Services

In this session, we delve into the complex interplay between phones, social media, academic achievement, and mental health in today's youth. As digital natives, children and adolescents are immersed in a world where smartphones and social networks are omnipresent. While these technologies offer unprecedented connectivity and access to information, they also pose significant challenges to academic success and mental well-being. We will uncover the multifaceted impact of screen time on students' ability to focus, learn, and thrive in academic settings. Moreover, we will examine the ways in which social media platforms shape adolescents' perceptions of themselves and others. By understanding the nuanced relationship between digital technology and well-being, educators and families can collaborate to support young people in navigating the digital landscape responsibly and fostering a healthy balance between screen time and real-life experiences.

Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion: The Basics

Presenter: Gina Gullo, Asst. Director of Education Services

Diversity, equity, and inclusion (DEI) can often become a vague concept that is difficult to grasp. In this session, participants dive into DEI by learning to distinguish diversity from equity from inclusion. Participants will explore privilege and engage in activities that challenge them to reconsider situations with a lens focused on identifying challenges to DEI and opportunities to enhance the educational environment of all students.

This session is designed for a primary audience of those serving as education support professionals.
